RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

Developments in the Northwestern War—Efforts for a Peace—Broken off—Accidents and Personal Mention.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The following correspondence shows that the northwest railway war has been put in the way of speedy termination and that an arbitration of existing difficulties is agreed upon:

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

To Julius Wadsworth, Esq., Vice-President Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway—Dear Sir: I propose a continuation of the ... into effect the 25th inst, between all points on all lines now ... ed to the present contest; that a meeting be called in Chicago at an early date to settle the agreement, if possible, and by arbitration, if necessary, all matters in dispute, and pending that settlement within 30 days from date no deviation from established tariffs shall be tolerated under the ... I have addressed a similar communication to Mr. Hows, vice-president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, as Mr. Riddle, the president, is not in the city, also to Mr. Porter, president of the Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha railroad company.

ALBERT KEEP,
President Chicago and Northwestern R. R.

Office of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul R. R.,
New York, Nov. 27.

Albert Keep, Esq., President—Dear Sir: The communication relating to the settlement of the present railroad complications, dated the 25th, is received, and terms of adjustment suggested by you have been considered and I am authorized in behalf of this company to say that the proposal meets with our approval, and this company is ready to promptly carry the same into effect. Very respectfully,

JULIUS WADSWORTH,
Vice President.

Kicked Over the Traces.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The exact status of the railroad war is hard to ... over. Vice President Wadsworth, of the St. Paul road, says Porter has kicked over the whole fair proposal of Keep of the Northwestern. If there is war now, let it continue. He will do nothing further. Keep says he went into the thing not because the Northwestern was the greatest sufferer but to secure harmony. He proposed a good plan and Porter's ... did not need discussion. He would not further concern himself for peace. He will ... start for Chicago to-night. Although the prospect was ... war, it is believed it will not influence the stock market much.

A New Tariff.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Commissioner Midgley gives notice the tariff ... of the southwestern railway association, Iowa trunk line association and Colorado traffic association, issued prior to January 1, 1882, ... classification of rates on traffic ... all of the said associations, except California business, will be null and void on and after that date. Tariffs ... to be issued taking effect January 1, 1883, ... and continuation necessary in regard to rates, ... etc., to be applied on shipments made on and after that day.

The Omaha Again Angry.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—After President Porter, of the Omaha line, had agreed to discuss territorial rights with the representatives of the warring roads, he found in an afternoon paper the announcement of the purchase of the Chippewa valley road by the St. Paul railroad for $1,675,... in bonds of the latter company. This was a surprise to him, and he bitterly denounced it as a fresh invasion of his territory, and declared all negotiations for peace off. Magnates and brokers ... for a better market to-day, ... and left the Windsor hotel in ...

Open to Los Angeles.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—After December 1, the Union Pacific railroad will be open for business to Los Angeles, California. The following will be the rates from Omaha or Kansas City to Los Angeles or intermediate points: First class, $15 50; first class, limited, $100; second class, $78; emigrant, $47 50. From Kansas City or St. Joseph to San Francisco the rates will be the same as from Omaha. The new rates from St. Louis to San Francisco will be, first class, $107 85; second class, $92; emigrant, $52.

A Truce Declared.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Last night by means of telegraph between this city and New York an agreement was reached between the managers of the Rock Island, St. Paul, Omaha and Northwestern roads, declaring a truce in the railroad war in the northwest for thirty days pending a meeting to consult about the differences. ... the rates on all lines will be restored to-day and remain so, pending new conditions.

Fears of a General Rupture.

President Cable, of the Rock Island, and Merritt of the St. Paul roads, say no conference has yet been held or arranged ... to settle the war on rates. A meeting of the managers of the roads to the southwestern pool has been called for to-morrow to take action to prevent trouble in that direction. It is believed the pool is on the verge of a general rupture.

Movements of Officials.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—W. G. Swan, general traffic manager; J. T. Clark, general agent, and V. H. Carpenter, general passenger agent, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, have gone to California. Swan, who was accompanied by Mrs. Swan, goes for his health, the others will devote their time to business.

Illinois Central Reduce Rates.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Nov. 28.—The railroad war reached this city to-day, the Illinois Central railroad notifying shippers that freight will be taken to Sioux City for ten cents per hundred, regardless of classification. Rates heretofore have been 25 cents, 35 cents, 40 cents and 50 cents.

Bought the Chippewa Valley.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—A Madison special says the Milwaukee and St. Paul road has bought the Chippewa and Superior railway, running 75 miles from Wabash, Minn., to the lumber camps in Eau Claire county, paying $1,375,000 in Milwaukee and St. Paul bonds.

Drawbridge Disaster.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 28.—A bad disaster was narrowly escaped at Cayuga on the New York Central where one of the most horrible accidents in the history of railroads has been witnessed. An engine on the New York express ran into the draw bridge through some carelessness that has characterized the management of this bridge before. The forward part of the engine rests on the deck of a canal boat that was in the draw. No lives were lost.

Accident to a Mail Train.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Nov. 28.—A mail train on the Lehigh and Hudson railway was derailed, the engine overturned and six loaded ore cars piled upon it. Engineer Wm. Nolan and Fireman Frank Porter were scalded to death under the wreck. Brakeman Howard Baiton was probably fatally injured.

THE FROZEN TRUTH.

Wayne MacVeagh's Reasons for Resigning the Attorney Generalship.

HIS LETTER TO PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

Full Explanation of his Connection with the Star Route Cases—Other Matters Relating to the Recent Resignation.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—The following letter from Attorney General Wayne MacVeagh to President Arthur just before his retirement from the cabinet appears in the Times of this morning:

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8, 1881.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: Your letter has just reached me and I will come and see you and talk over ... more the subject of which it treats ... the same spirit of consultation in which we have heretofore discussed it. I will telegraph in advance of my coming, which will be just as soon as I am free myself from engagements here. In the interval I wish you to remember again the reasons why I cannot share your opinion upon this subject. As I have already told you I knew comparatively nothing about the star route frauds until President Garfield called my attention to them. He spoke earnestly of his duty to have them investigated, to the removal of all persons who ought to have prevented them and to see that all persons were prosecuted against whom reasonable grounds for such a course were developed by investigation. I said he had explained to the postmaster general the same views and also why he wished him to consult me rather than the district attorney of the district. The postmaster general called upon me and we went together

TO THE PRESIDENT.

He was quite as emphatic as before in the expression of his own opinion from the subject. He spoke of the frauds as unparalleled ... and as a loathsome ulcer on the body politic, needing to be cut out with all its roots, no matter where they extended. He said while it did not belong to any department, certainly not at all that class of the matter, yet he wished to associate me with the postmaster general to the extent of having the latter feel at liberty to consult me at any time about it. He said he intended to remove General Brady as soon as the postmaster general could find a satisfactory successor. ... interview he regretted the delay in that matter and directed his immediate removal, as ... responsible for the great frauds which ... was evidently convinced had been committed. As soon as Gen. Brady's resignation had been demanded, the newspaper ... began abusing President Garfield, the postmaster general, myself and everybody in any way connected with the investigation. On the subject I speak without the slightest personal warmth, for the reason ... I ... and I only know what I have been told by other newspapers. President Garfield subsequently expressed a regret that he had exposed me to such attacks by connecting me with a matter not ... a part of my duty as ... but I told him I regarded it as an honor ... be abused in such company. I added a general proposition that in these days

We agreed that in view of the circumstances we ought to select from the leaders of the bar gentlemen, not only of the highest ability ... character, but gentlemen also whose personal and political relations would very probably be not only cordial but confidential with you and with any successor, so that you should not approach their conduct with every possible advantage. Dennis Field, a Government Juror Assassinated in Dublin.

THE CITY IN A STATE OF RIOT.

Disastrous Floods in Germany—Troubles about Arabi's Trial—Railroad Accident—England Opposes France's Control in Africa.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Dennis Field, a juror in the case of Hynes, hanged for the murder of Herder Doughty, was set upon Frederick street on his way home to dinner, yesterday, by a party containing two men, one of whom jumped off and stabbed Field in several places with a sword. Field is dying. Field's assailants drove off in the direction of Trinity ... Field is still alive, but his condition is precarious. He says they stabbed him in the arm, chest and cheek, with a sword-cane. He seized the weapon and broke it. The men then knocked him down and wounded him in the back, after which they jumped on the car and said "Jarvy, drive quick, for heaven's sake." It is dark to-night and an additional guard has been placed. ... the Castle. Field, when acting as a juror in the Hynes case, handed a note from the box to Giddard, of the ... communications. The comments of the Freeman's Journal on this incident made Field a marked man, although he explained the note was of an innocent nature.

The mob to-night attacked the Jervis street hospital, where Dolan, who shot and killed Detective Harris, with the object, it is believed, of rescuing him. The mob shouted, yelled and tried to break the doors. The inmates were thrown into a state of the greatest alarm. The police were telegraphed, and a large force arrived on the ground at 10 o'clock, armed with swords and batons, when the mob retreated, but lurking and hovering in the vicinity. The police are now patrolling the neighborhood and guarding the hospital.

Only two of the five additional persons, arrested in connection with the murder of Detective Cox, are detained in custody. Woodward, one of the supposed accomplices, lived some time in the United States.

Field, who was stabbed Monday, refused to let rooms to the ladies' land league which he later let to Giddard, a hostile.

The Detective's Funeral.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—The funeral of detective Cox, murdered Saturday, was held to-day and excited great interest. Traffic was suspended during the passage of the cortege, which included several hundred constables and twenty carriages containing citizens. PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Catch of the Whaling Fleet.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The whalers Stamboul and Lucretia have both just arrived here from the northern cruise with cargoes of oil, bone and ivory. This completes the full whaling fleet, making in all 27 vessels which have arrived at this port from the Arctic. Following is the total result of the season's catch: 21,524 barrels oil, 14,600 pounds ivory, 313,100 pounds bone.

UTAH.

Admission as a State.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 28.—To-morrow morning Elders John T. Caine, James Sharp, D. A. Perry, W. D. Johnson and H. S. Richards leave Salt Lake for Washington. Their purpose is to lobby this winter for the admission of Utah into the union. They will be reinforced after the holidays by a larger delegation with full instructions from the Mormon church. Judge Tanell, district attorney for Utah, who ran on the liberal ticket for delegate to congress in opposition to Elder John T. Caine, leaves on Wednesday to contest Caine's seat.

ARIZONA.

A Growing Activity.

TUCSON, Nov. 28.—Matters in southern Arizona are growing very active. The copper output has trebled in the last six months. Travel over the Southern Pacific railroad to the coast is increasing rapidly.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Official Vote of Washington Territory.

OLYMPIA, Nov. 28.—The official vote of the territory for delegate to congress has just been received by Secretary Owings. Thomas H. Brents, republican nominee, received 11,798 votes, and Thomas Burke, democratic nominee, 9242 votes; scattering, 9; total vote, 18,089; majority for Brents, 556.

Killed by Explosion of Gas.

NEW TACOMA, Nov. 28.—Yesterday morning at Carbonado, as the men were about going to work, the watchman reported gas in mine No. 3, ... of the gangways in which there had been no work for several days. Before the fanning apparatus could be started a young man named Spencer entered the mine with an open lamp and an explosion followed, instantly killing him. Four hundred thousand tons of coal are at these mines awaiting transportation.

HISTORY IN THE SCHOOLS

[illegible] and are forgotten [illegible] as written cannot undergo revision, and the style is often inaccurate [illegible]

[illegible] that it is objected that our school manuals have too much space [illegible] things long past. That [illegible] of authentic and erroneous methods of teaching. All history is history of the past and is dry and tasteless or sparkling and interesting as the writer makes it. But good books have so multiplied within the last few years that there ought to be [illegible] difficulty in obtaining the very best. Some persons, however, seem to suppose it time wasted to read of Marathon and Lepanto. They would have our own history taught as about all that can be worth knowing. This is a mistake akin to the proposition to introduce into the schools the trivialities of the daily newspaper as a means of promoting the study of history. It is presumed of course that the outlines of our own history will not be neglected in the schools. But it is of supreme importance to attend to an outline of general history, as the greater always includes the less. History is not made up of groups of detached facts. It is a great chain in which every event is connected with some other preceding it. Every attempt to teach history ought to be built on this fundamental fact in the philosophy of history. Judicious teaching of history, more than anything else, widens the horizon of the growing mind.

VERY CROOKED.

Exceedingly curious as a revelation of the methods of the star route robbers are the affidavits of the jurors who saved them from conviction. It will be remembered that these affidavits professed to give with great minuteness of detail the several efforts made by employes of the department of justice to influence them by bribery to convict the defendants. Several curious points are here presented. The affidavits were made by the three jurors Dickson, Brown and Holmead, who voted in the jury room first that the conspiracy had not been proved; second, that two of the defendants, Miner and Rerdell, were guilty of conspiracy, and finally that Brady and the Dorseys were innocent. Again, the record of the disagreement of the jury showed this curious combination, viz: Dickson voted to acquit Brady and S. W. Dorsey and to convict J. W. Dorsey and Vaile; Holmead voted to acquit the Dorseys and Vaile and to convict Brady; Brown voted to acquit Brady and the Dorseys and to convict Vaile; and a fourth juror, Martin, after several quite incomprehensible changes, voted to convict all four of the defendants. At every point of the balloting therefore, every one of these four defendants was protected by the vote of at least one of these four jurors—Dickson, Holmead, Brown and Martin. These are the men who assert that agents of the department of justice tried to bribe them to convict and Ingersoll and others never grow weary of parading the charge. But how could the agents of the department have known that these jurors were inclined to acquit and how happened it that none of the others were approached or tampered with? Dorsey himself says that the prosecution so far as he is concerned, has been pushed for the purpose of injuring his character, but why so great an effort has been made for such a purpose he does not say. It is hardly probable that this effort has been put forth by republican officials because of his high position in the republican party as an ex-senator and as the present secretary of the republican national committee.

There was an interesting discussion at the recent meeting of the academy of sciences at New York upon the sources of the great heat in the famous Comstock mines. The facts, it was urged, point to the existence of molten lava about two miles below the surface. Going down into the mine the temperature is normal for only about one hundred feet. After that it increases rapidly. At five hundred feet it is much higher than in most other mines, and at one thousand feet it reaches one hundred degrees Fahrenheit. A depth of two thousand feet has been reached and some of the mines have penetrated even further. The steady increase of the temperature the further the miners descend seems to point with certainty to the existence of the lava of volcanic action at the depth before indicated.

Messrs. Frank E. Hodgkin and J. J. Galvin have issued their Pen Pictures of Representative Men of Oregon which was announced some weeks ago. The book contains brief biographical sketches of about three hundred men representing all professions and pursuits, and all sections of the state. It is the most comprehensive publication of its kind ever issued in Oregon and is written in agreeable style. It is sold for one dollar. Many copies will doubtless be taken by the persons who have been so fortunate as to find such biographers and by their many friends.

Inasmuch as the democratic organs are so vigorously denouncing the river and harbor bill and declaring it one of the leading causes of the republican defeat, it might be as well to remark [illegible] that a larger percentage of democratic members voted for it [illegible]

It is asserted by the Washington [illegible] [illegible]

PROHIBITION AS A PARTY QUESTION.

[illegible]

The third lesson and a very important one for the prohibitionists to appreciate is that the opposition to prohibitory legislation is not confined to the rumsellers and their immediate dependents, but that it embraces masses of citizens whose lives are in every sense high, and views and conduct are in every sense highly respectable. There are a great many people who are themselves temperate in their habits and wish that others should be so, but who nevertheless deny that the state has any right to interfere with the private and social habits and customs of individuals when they are in themselves innocent. There are those who believe that for the promotion of temperate habits among the people prohibitory laws [illegible] has always failed and must fail [illegible]

It is certain enough that the reverses of this autumn will not have the effect of arresting the agitation of the temperance question. That agitation is [illegible] moral question and a general elevation of the tone of society.

Ships and Guns.

The Cincinnati [illegible] after describing the tremendous iron clads which Great Britain is building says:

In the United States the secretary of the navy [illegible]

The same paper after describing progress made in making guns which has resulted in the [illegible] Armstrong and Krupp cannons, says:

It should be remembered that the United States are nowhere in the progress, having no machinery for building up guns of coils or tubes. The United States, for defense are depending solely on [illegible]

It is true that the sea coast cities of the United States, in case of war with any ordinary foreign power, would have no possible defense except for [illegible] We do not believe that the nation likes this state of affairs, or that there would be any protest were the debt paying surplus devoted for two or three years until a moderate navy should be built and armed and the sea coast defenses made worthy of the republic.

Butler's Checkered Career.

George Alfred Townsend in his letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer has the following on the new governor of Massachusetts:

Few who now applaud Butler remember that he was the open defender of Oakes Ames in congress during the Credit Mobilier matter, that he was the [illegible] defender of the back pay, and that that kind of [illegible] out of congress and that when President Johnson was asking congress to be a little considerate [illegible] reconstruction policy Butler was one of those who drove him to the wall, captured the impeachment committee and did the [illegible] at the impeachment trial. Not long after the impeachment [illegible] said to me one day: "If it had not been for Butler [illegible] suppose the impeachment trial would have been anything above burlesque." It was Butler who put the dramatic element into that, as into all things he ever went at. His career in congress was stormy. He knew how to operate that body within its committees, its caucuses and on the floor. He had a formidable [illegible] ways on the aggressive, and [illegible] threat he generally made his point. With a certain generosity [illegible] outside of congress he had not much inside.

A Tory Growl.

Touching the power now exercised by the English prime minister since the success in Egypt, the London Telegraph, commenting on the opposition to the passage of the new rules of parliamentary government, says:

Before the [illegible] wind of his fell sword there turned down a [illegible] Stafford Northcote [illegible] of resisting Mr. Gladstone [illegible] ship to the autumn sessions. His followers [illegible] thankful [illegible] that they have fallen into the hands of a minister who does not ask for anything [illegible] of Prussia [illegible] Prince Bismarck as the boss [illegible] a [illegible] Ireland and a conquered Egypt to his triumphal car.

Lemmerside and "Protection."

The democratic Hartford Times advises its [illegible] party to espouse protection. It says:

With the great revenues to be raised [illegible] well protected. The constitution [illegible] raising revenue. But while it [illegible] it must be acknowledged [illegible] government [illegible] protect [illegible]

HISTORY IN SCHOOLS.

There has been [illegible] discussion [illegible] of the proposition to use the [illegible] newspaper in the schools to create in the minds of pupils an interest in current events, with a view to leading up to a study of the outlines of history. While it is possible that something might be said in favor of the suggestion [illegible] weight of opinion is likely to incline to the idea that the newspaper is not just the kind of literature which the school room requires. The contents are to a large degree [illegible] in their character and necessarily so, since they refer chiefly to matters that pass today and are forgotten to-morrow; they are hastily written, cannot undergo revision, and the style is often inaccurate or even bad; and moreover no general newspaper can present a table of contents so free from faults as to make it worthy of the consideration it would receive from its introduction into a school as a means of instruction. Most children when they get old enough to take an interest in passing events look to the newspaper quickly enough. As a rule their education is not deficient in such common knowledge as the newspaper supplies. The tendency is too much toward the substitution of the newspaper for better and more solid instruction.

But it is objected that our school manuals devote too much space to the dry details of things long past. That objection lies against injudicious selection of authors and erroneous methods of teaching. All history is history of the past, and it is dry and tasteless, or sparkling and interesting, as the writer makes it. But good books have so multiplied within the last few years that there ought to be no difficulty in obtaining the very best. Some persons, however, seem to suppose it time wasted to read of Marathon and Lepanto. They would have our own history taught as about all that can be worth knowing. This is a mistake akin to the proposition to introduce into the schools the trivialities of the daily newspaper as a means of promoting the study of history. It is presumed, of course, that the outlines of our own history will not be neglected in the schools. But it is of supreme importance to attend to an outline of general history, as the greater always includes the less. History is not made up of groups of detached facts. It is a great chain, in which every event is connected with some other preceding it. Every attempt to teach history ought to be built on this fundamental fact in the philosophy of history. Judicious teaching of history, more than anything else, widens the horizon of the growing mind.

VERY CROOKED.

Exceedingly curious as a revelation of the the methods of the star route robbers are the affidavits of the jurors who saved them from conviction. It will be remembered that these affidavits professed to give, with great minuteness of detail, the several efforts made by employes of the department of justice to influence them by bribes to convict the defendants. Several curious points are here presented. The affidavits were made by the three jurors, Dickson, Brown and Holmead, who voted in the jury room first, that the conspiracy had not been proved; second, that two of the defendants, Miner and Rerdell, were guilty of conspiracy, and finally that Brady and the Dorseys were innocent. Again, the record of the disagreement of the jury showed this curious combination, viz.: Dickson voted to acquit Brady and S. W. Dorsey and to convict J. W. Dorsey and Vaile; Holmead voted to acquit the Dorseys and Vaile and to convict Brady; Brown voted to acquit Brady and the Dorseys and to convict Vaile; and a fourth juror, Martin, after several quite incomprehensible changes, voted to convict all four of the defendants. At every point of the balloting, therefore, every one of these four defendants was protected by the vote of at least one of these four jurors—Dickson, Holmead, Brown and Martin. These are the men who assert that agents of the department of justice tried to bribe them to convict; and Ingersoll and others never grow weary of parading the charge. But how could the agents of the department have known that these jurors were inclined to acquit, and how happened it that none of the others were approached or tampered with? Dorsey himself says that the prosecution, so far as he is concerned, has been pushed for the purpose of injuring his character; but why so great an effort has been made for such a purpose he does not say. It is hardly probable that this effort has been put forth by republican officials because of his high position in the republican party as an ex-senator and as the present secretary of the republican national committee.

There was an interesting discussion at the recent meeting of the academy of sciences at New York upon the sources of the great heat in the famous Comstock mines. The facts, it was urged, point to the existence of molten lava about two miles below the surface. Going down into the mine the temperature is normal for only about one hundred feet. After that it increases rapidly. At five hundred feet it is much higher than in most other mines, and at one thousand feet it reaches one hundred degrees Fahrenheit. A depth of two thousand feet has been reached, and some of the mines have penetrated even further. The steady increase of the temperature the further the miners descend seems to point with certainty to the existence of the lava of volcanic action at the depth before indicated.

Messrs. Frank E. Hodgkin and J. J. Galvin have issued their "Pen Pictures of Representative Men of Oregon," which was announced some weeks ago. The book contains brief biographical sketches of about three hundred men, representing all professions and pursuits, and all sections of the state. It is the most comprehensive publication of its kind ever issued in Oregon, and is written in agreeable style. It is sold for one dollar. Many copies will doubtless be taken by the persons who have been so fortunate as to find such biographers, and by their many friends.

Inasmuch as the democratic organs are so vigorously denouncing the river and harbor bill and declaring it one of the leading causes of the republican defeat it might be as well to remark, firstly, that a larger per centage of democratic members voted for it than republicans; and secondly, that the greater number of southern democrats who voted for it have been re-elected. In that section of the union the democrats don't look on the river and harbor bill as an iniquity.

It is asserted by the Washington Post that Secretary Lincoln, in his forthcoming report will recommend that no river and harbor bill be introduced during the coming session, as it will be impossible to expend the amount appropriated last session during the present fiscal year. We should like to hear the name of the river or harbor which couldn't get away with its appropriation and be just as ready for more.

Analysis of the vote cast in New York city at the recent election shows that, as compared with the vote of 1880, 36,853 persons entitled to the franchise remained away from the polls. Of the [illegible] were democrats, and 27,[illegible] were republicans. Any prognosis of future results based on a vote through which so large a quantity is missing is pretty sure to be misleading.

The tariff question looms up as one of the most perplexing in the next congress. Democrats are even more divided on it than republicans.

Republics may be ungrateful, but Missouri is not. The late Hon. Jesse James is to have a monument.

PROHIBITION AS A PARTY QUESTION.

Consideration on the Consequences of Forcing the Movement to Party Contests.

The New York Evening Post is a paper of the highest character in the whole range of our journalism, [illegible] representative of the cultivated thought of the country. A recent issue of the paper, now [illegible], contains an article on the risks of [illegible] the prohibition question or anything touching it into the contests of political parties, and on the new light shed by the recent elections on the value of [illegible] as an element in party contests, which is so clear in its statements and so judicious in its conclusions that we cannot omit the opportunity to present a summary of it, at the same time commending it to the reader's careful consideration. The main points of the article are as follows:

People who tired of the old, drag long of partisan [illegible] and becoming more and more disgusted with the prevailing methods of party management. But they wanted to interest themselves in something, and as the temperance question was ready at hand, and had the support of a considerable number of zealous advocates, it pushed forward upon the ground formerly occupied by other issues [illegible] [illegible] seemed to go swimmingly. A prohibitory [illegible] was put into the state constitution of Kansas by way of [illegible]. The same thing was done in Iowa. In Indiana a movement was set on foot in the same direction. In Ohio laws were passed which, although not prohibitory in character themselves, looked very much like a preparation for prohibition. In Wisconsin the prohibitionists took steps to set themselves up as an independent political organization. It looked as if the movement would sweep irresistibly over the whole country.

Then the late elections came. First, the republicans in Ohio, who had to some extent identified themselves with the temperance movement, were defeated by a heavy majority. Then, as a result of one year's [illegible] enforce prohibition in Kansas, Governor St. John, the principal champion, who two years ago [illegible] elected by 52,000 majority, was defeated in the very issue by a democratic opponent, the first democratic candidate for governor ever elected in Kansas. Then the republicans in Indiana, who also had been leaning to the prohibition side, were badly beaten. And finally, the republican majority in Iowa, where the prohibition movement had driven large numbers of citizens from the republican ranks, was fearfully reduced.

Before the election many people seemed to believe that while the favor shown to prohibition on the republican side would drive a considerable number of voters away, it would at the same time attract the best elements from the democratic party, and thus more than make up for the loss. This expectation has been thoroughly exploded. The democrats gladly received the voters whom the prohibition tendency had alienated from the republican party, and gave not a man in return. The party which embraced prohibition, or coquetted with it, lost heavily without compensation. This was the first lesson. The second was that the temperance men themselves did not gain anything for their cause by inducing one of the existing political parties to identify itself to a greater or less extent with their programme. They only contributed largely to the disasters which that party suffered, and prepared a strong reaction against their own cause. In Kansas and elsewhere it evidently has little chance left for the enforcement of the prohibitory clauses in the constitution, even if in the latter state that clause should be sustained by the supreme court; and political parties will henceforth be more reluctant than ever to identify themselves with a cause which has proved so dangerous to party success.

The third lesson and a very important one for the prohibitionists to appreciate, is that the opposition to prohibitory legislation is not confined to the "rumsellers" and their immediate dependents, but that it embraces classes of citizens whose occupations, views and conduct are in every sense highly respectable. There are a great many people who are themselves temperate in their habits and wish that others should be so, but who conscientiously entertain the opinion that the state has no right to interfere with the private and social habits and enjoyments of individuals when they are in themselves innocent. There are others who believe that for the promotion of temperate habits among the people, prohibitory laws, the enforcement of which has always failed, are not only useless, but positively harmful, because demoralizing. There are still others who think that the general character and habits of our people would be vastly improved by cultivating among them the taste for innocent social pleasures in which the use of light wines and beers might be an entirely unobjectionable element. These opinions proceed from unprejudiced thought and large observation, as well as from a sense of right, and they have but seldom received from the advocates of the temperance cause that consideration and respect which they deserve.

It is certain enough that the reverses of this autumn will not have the effect of arresting the agitation of the temperance question. That agitation appears even to have entered upon new fields, especially in Europe. But the experiences gathered in the recent election may have convinced the wisest heads among its leaders that prohibitory legislation is not the thing to accomplish good results, that as a political element it is a two edged weapon, apt to wound those most severely who handle it, and that the best effects upon the habits of the people may be produced, as they have been produced heretofore, by moral suasion and a general elevation of the tone of society.

Ships and Guns.

The Cincinnati Gazette, after describing the tremendous iron clads which Great Britain is building, says:

In the United States a secretary of the navy began to build five sea-going iron clads of good model and modern engines of the same names as five worthless and cast off monitors. A smart congress charged him and the new ships with the cost of the old, and for that stopped work on them, and broke him down by fine and cry. Such is the intelligence that governs our national defenses.

The same paper, after describing progress made in casting guns, which has resulted in the modern Armstrong and Krupp cannons, says:

It should be mentioned that the United States are nowhere in this progress, having no machinery for building such guns or rolls or tubes. The United States, for defense, are depending solely on good behavior.

It is true that the sea coast cities of the United States, in case of war with any ordinary foreign power, would have no possible defense except torpedoes; and on land we are not any better off, so far as artillery is concerned. We do not believe that the nation likes this state of affairs, or that there would be any protest were the debt paying suspended for two or three years until a moderate navy should be built and armed and the sea coast defenses made worthy of the republic.

Butler's Checkered Career.

George Alfred Townsend, in his letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer, has the following on the new governor of Massachusetts:

Few who now applaud Butler remember that he was the open defender of Oakes Ames in congress during the Credit Mobilier matter; that he was the [illegible] in defense of the back pay, and that beat him and drove him out of congress; and that when President Johnson was asking congress to be a little considerate about its reconstruction policy Butler was one of those who drove him to the wall, captured the impeachment committee and did the whole flourish at the impeachment trial. Not long after the impeachment scheme was over Mr. Blaine said to me one day: "If it had not been for Butler, do you suppose the impeachment trial would have been anything above burlesque? It was Butler who put the dramatic element into that, as almost all things he ever went at. His career in congress was stormy. He knew how to operate that body with its committees, its caucuses, and on the floor. He had a formidable repartee, and was always on the aggressive, and between a laugh and a threat he generally made his point. With a certain gene-osity on the outside of congress, he had not much inside.

A Tory Growl.

Touching the power now exercised by the English prime minister since the success in Egypt, the London Telegraph, commenting on the opposition to the passage of the new rule of parliamentary government, says:

Before the "whiff and wind of his fell sword" there tumbled down all chance which Sir Stafford Northcote had of resisting Mr. Gladstone's dictatorship in the autumn session. His followers may be thankful that they have fallen into the hands of a minister who does not ask for anything more stringent, for the parliament of Prussia might as well try to oppose Prince Bismarck as the house of commons resist the mandate of a statesman who has fastened a quieted Ireland and a conquered Egypt to his triumphal car.

Democrats and "Protection."

The democratic Hartford Times advises its victorious party to espouse protection. It says:

With the great revenue to be raised during the next quarter of a century every interest may and should be well protected. The constitution provides for raising revenue. But while it does not specifically require that protection should be extended to any interest, it must be acknowledged that the object of government is to protect persons and property. In raising vast revenues, then, the democrats should regard the interests of our young and growing manufacturing and other interests, and they should so extend the taxes for revenue as to protect and sustain those interests.

The Pall Mall Gazette learnedly explains that the American phrase "gerrymander" is derived "from the name of the inventor of the plan, Col. Jeremiah Mauller, once a famous American politician!"

A free trade platform will not carry Pennsylvania in 1884. Nor New York, nor New Jersey nor Indiana. This is the fly in the democratic ointment.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 29, 1882.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Centerville is to have a new hotel.

A party of hunters near Baker City recently killed an elk weighing 87 pounds.

Miller and Hussey, two Colorado men, are building a grist mill near Alder, Union county.

The skeleton of a man was found last week sunk in the sand in an old skiff which formerly belonged to the ferry boat used at Olds ferry. The skeleton was found by some railroad graders about a mile below the ferry. The finding has caused some little excitement.

Western Oregon.

Eli Hubbard, a pioneer of 1853, died near Salem Sunday, aged 75 years. Deceased settled at Silverton, and after twenty years moved to Knox prairie, where he died.

Washington Territory.

The capacity of the Cheney mill is 120 barrels a day.

The Medical lake stage has discontinued daily trips.

Yakima county cast 800 votes this year, a gain of 300 since 1880.

Ellensburg is to have a public hall 30x60 in size and two stories high.

Over thirty new buildings have been constructed in Pomeroy since June 1.

A company has been organized in Cheney to erect a planing mill and furniture factory.

Freight for Yakima is steadily increasing at The Dalles and eighty tons are now awaiting shipment.

The Sprague shops have been ordered to turn out 50 new freight cars and six cabooses. The lumber comes from the Ainsworth mill.

The election in Thurston and Lewis counties this year was the cause of a curious coincidence. In February, 1854, the first legislature of the newly organized territory met in Olympia. The council consisted of nine members and the house of thirty. Those in the council consisted of Messrs. D. R. Bigelow, Henry Miles, B. F. Yantis, G. N. McConaha, Seth Catlin, W. T. Sayward, L. Balch, W. H. Tappan and D. F. Bradford. So far as is known all of these are dead, but Messrs. Bigelow and Miles. In the same legislature Capt. C. H. Hale was a member of the lower house. If they both live until next fall Henry Miles and C. H. Hale, after a lapse of thirty years, will again meet together, elected on the same ticket and from the same district, only they will have reversed positions, in that Mr. Hale will then be in the council and Mr. Miles in the house.

Montana.

Missoula has a handsome new paper, the Missoula County Times.

The business of the Missoula postoffice is more than three times as great as it was one year ago. The receipts for October were over $600.

With the exception of a small amount of rock work the grade between Missoula and the western terminus of the Northern Pacific is completed.

One hundred and fifty tons of bridge iron, all that is needed on the Northern Pacific between Missoula and Little Blackfoot, has arrived at Deer Lodge.

A new building is being erected at Fort Missoula, to be used as the commanding officer's quarters. It is one and one-half stories high and contains eleven rooms, and will soon be ready for occupancy.

There will be 13 bridge crossings in the 70 miles of railroad east of Missoula. Eleven of these bridges are over what is known as the Deer Lodge river. Below the mouth of the Big Blackfoot the stream is known as the Missoula river. The first bridge over the Missoula is about six miles above town, and will consist of two spans of 154 feet 6 inches each. The second crossing is about three miles above town and will be a two-span bridge—124 feet 6 inches to the span. A bridge over the Big Blackfoot will be one span of 180 feet. The plans and charts of all these structures are under the effective supervision of Mr. H. J. Bowe, who has also maps of the trestle work over Morentz and O'Keeffe gulches—the former being 226 feet 10 inches high and the latter (O'Keeffe gulch) 1000 feet long.

THE PUYALLUP OIL REGION.

Representatives of the Standard Oil Company Inspecting the Country. Indications Favorable.

Ever since strong indications of native petroleum have been found in the vicinity of Puyallup the public have been eager to glean all that could be learned in regard to it. At one time it was reported that several Seattle gentlemen had made considerable money out of these lands, among them Mr. Fletcher; but those who had owned these lands were inclined to be reticent. Until very lately it has not been known, however, that the Puyallup diggings had attracted well known oil men. The Kneeland brothers, representatives of the Standard oil company, some weeks ago arrived from Bradford, Penn., and have been stopping at Olympia. They have visited the Puyallup section and lately assured a representative of the Chronicle that they were satisfied that oil would eventually be found there in large quantities. The formation, they announce, is on close investigation shown to be singularly like the oil producing regions of the east. They claim that the country around Puyallup furnishes the strongest indications, and in addition to this, what is termed the foot wall remains intact and unbroken, the sky furnishing repositories for the petroleum. These representatives of the Standard company have great confidence in that section. They have visited several other sections north of Seattle, of the Sound and have also become interested in Chehalis county.

Several of the points visited they deem especially good for prospecting. It is not definitely known, but there is good ground for believing that this company have made purchases of land near Puyallup. In the recent interview it was stated that one of the number now visiting the territory would probably remain at Olympia for oil at Puyallup. They believe it exists there and so express themselves most unequivocally. They like the territory and its climate and the rest of the entire number has been prompted on account of the many strong indications of oil. Should the great Standard company conclude to fully enter into the business of prospecting here it will bring increased population, and the development of the country will be greatly enhanced. The Kneeland brothers state emphatically that they believe oil in large quantities will be found here. They are still making their headquarters at the territorial capital and visiting the various sections where it is thought oil exists. Being men of abundant means there is scarcely a doubt that they will probe the matter to the bottom, and that they will ere long cause the production of oil in Washington to be a number of tangible figures each year. Most of the old residents believe in the country as an oil producer, and it will afford the highest satisfaction to know that such good authority as the Standard oil company sustains them in the belief.—Seattle Chronicle.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

PORTLAND, Nov. 28.

The local wheat market presents no new features, prevailing rates remaining as yesterday.

English Grain Market.

The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade for the past week, says progress with husbandry is very slow, wheat sowing is very slow under the most favorable circumstances. There is no improvement in supplies and dry samples are still scarce. Trade is dull and sales unchanged. Foreign cottages find support, sellers except New Zealand, which is in better. There is no advance in any other description of foreign breadstuffs, which sells slowly. Cargoes are quiet, eight arrivals and sales. No. California advanced 3d. Forward trade is inactive and prices steady. Flour is in restricted demand at rates more or less labored. Foreign is unimproved. Arrivals from America are heavy. Barley has improved. Samples are scarcer and values improved. At some provincial exchanges [illegible]. Oats are unchanged and foreign lower. Maize has improved at London, but a liberal supply has weakened the market at Liverpool.

Sales of English wheat the past week were 51,157 quarters at 41s 11d, against 52,491 quarters at 40s 4d in the corresponding week of last year.

Iron Ships for the Portland Trade.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Telegram says it is rumored in shipping circles that one of our railroad millionaires would build a fleet of iron sailing ships for the Portland coast trade. A Telegram reporter called on [illegible] H. Starbuck for information regarding the matter. Starbuck said the story was hardly true, but probably sprung from the fact that he had already contracted for one ship of 3000 tons and had in contemplation the building of five more of these ships. The reporter learned they were to be 244 feet long, 44 feet beam, 25 feet depth of hold, and to deliver cargoes in Portland, Or. They must carry a draught of only 18 feet of water when heavily loaded. Their intention is to carry heavy dead weight cargoes from this port around the Horn, then grain across to Europe and a general cargo back here, is indeed of a variable nature and no doubt makes their probable efficiency something of a problem, both financial and philosophical.

San Francisco Wheat and Freight Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Private inquiry for wheat and No. 1 occasionally brings $1 72½ per cental, though the demand at this figure must be strictly choice in every respect. Freights are hard to quote, as it is difficult to obtain rates until some days after charters are effected. The Equator obtained £3 5s Cork for orders to Liverpool, Havre or Antwerp and £1 64 less direct. Several iron ships could be had at £2 2s 6d U. K., and probably a shade less, but charterers are unwilling to make an offer approximating that figure.

Eastern Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The California freight market situation is still rather quiet, shows some improvement. Hopes are entertained that there will be a revival after the new year has turned. Rates are somewhat firm although no higher. Tonnage is in limited supply and the demand light. The new auxiliary steamship, George T. Hoover, will leave Bath for this port on the 1st of December, and will load for Portland.

Port and Meat Market.

Beef is firm at quotations, with moderate supply. Prices would be paid for stock as follows:

BEEF—First quality 7½c, with slight advance for stall fed, second do. 7c, third do. 6c.

VEAL—Small 8c, large 5½@6c, choice 8c.

MUTTON—Wethers 3½c; ewes 3c.

LAMB—Quotable at 4c.

PORK—We quote live hogs at 6c, or 7@7½c net weight.

Money Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Sterling exchange on London banks, 60 days, $4 86@4 86¼; do. documentary $4 70; transfers, 2½@30.

Bank of England rate of interest, 5 per cent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Sterling exchange, prime banks, long, 4 80; short, 4 84.

Good commercial from 1 to ¼c lower; documentary ½ to 1¼c lower.

U. S. bonds—3's, 101⅜; 4's, 112⅛; 4s, 118¼.

Silver—Sterling, 200 fine, per fine ounce, 52 10¼.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Silver bullion, English standard, 915 fine, per fine ounce 51.

Consols, 102 1-15 money, 102 1-8.

U. S. Bonds—4's, 121½; 4s, 121¼.

Money, Stocks and Bonds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Bar silver, 110½; money closed, easy; governments strong; stocks generally weak; Western Union 81¾; quicksilver 8; Pacific 39¾; Wells Fargo 127; N. Y. Central 130; Erie 36½; Panama 67; Denver & Rio Grande 46¾; Union Pacific 103¾; bonds 115; Central Pacific 87¾; bonds 114; Sutro 4½.

San Francisco Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.

Weather, foggy; wind light east.

Receipts—Wheat, 5,350 ctls, including 18,080 ctls aboard flour 4000 sacks oats, 500 ctls, potatoes 850 sks.

Wheat—The market is strong but quiet; No. 1 white, $1 70@1 72½; choice milling, $1 [illegible]; sale—one No 1 white, January, $1 75.

Flour—Oregon and Walla Walla extras from wharf $4 50@4 65; jobbing, $4 75@4 90; market is firm; there is no demand for superfine.

Barley—Feed—quiet, prices against sellers; quoted $1 13@1 40; No. 1 feed, December, $1 42; January, $1 48.

Oats—Steady and quiet; prices are unchanged.

Potatoes—Market overstocked; weak at 40c to $1, according to quality.

Onions—Stocks are large; supplies easy; quiet. Hops—Dull, with next to nothing doing; 90 asked.

Eggs—Fresh California, 45@50c; Eastern, 30c; choice orders are holding off.

Butter—Fresh, 40c for choice fresh roll; market is quiet, with tendency to more ease.

ARRIVED.

The market is so unsettled that accurate quotations are impossible.

VOLUNTARY TRIBUTE OF GRATITUDE FOR BENEFITS CONFERRED.

DEAR SIR: Please allow me the privilege of giving my testimony regarding the wonderful curative properties of your valuable medicine, Hunt's Remedy. During the past seven or eight years I have been a great sufferer from kidney disease, and during a great part of the time my sufferings have been so intense as to be indescribable. Only those who have suffered by this dread disease know of the awful backache and pains of all kinds, accompanied by great weakness and nervous prostration, loss of force and ambition, which invariably attend it. I tried all the remedies I could hear of, and was at one time so far gone that I could not get on and off my chair except by putting my hands on my knees and almost falling out before I could straighten up. I tried the best doctors and many kinds of medicine, but all failed to help me, and I experimented so long, endeavoring to get cured, that last spring I was in very poor shape, and in seeking for relief my attention was directed by a friend to the remarkable cures of kidney diseases, etc., which were being accomplished by Hunt's Remedy. I commenced to try it, and began to take it, and very soon commenced to feel its benefit; my severe backache and the intense pains I had suffered so long speedily disappeared, notwithstanding I had been troubled with this complaint so many years.

When I began to take Hunt's Remedy I was seriously run down in my general health, and suffered also from loss of appetite. Six bottles of Hunt's Remedy has entirely restored me, however, and I have been made healthy. My former complaint is banished, pains, etc., have disappeared, and I now feel like my former self, dear, hearty and completely healthy. I shall always keep Hunt's Remedy with me, and would most earnestly recommend to all who are sufferers from kidney, or liver diseases, or diseases of the bladder or urinary organs, to use Hunt's Remedy, and take no other. Yours very truly,

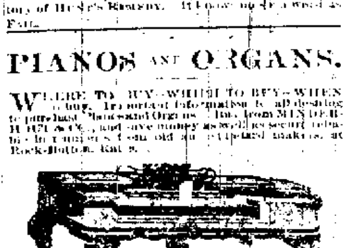

HENRY [illegible] SHELTON,

[illegible], Providence, R. I.

In the leisure of youth, etc., there is much we ever fail to know. Now found all the interesting history of Hunt's Remedy. It's now in its very best state.
